

Shanghai Hengrun Biomedical Technology Research Institute
Journal of Cellular Immunotherapy

Contents

Volume 2, Number 1 (March 2016)

A new wave: Introducing the Journal of Cellular Immunotherapy

X. Cao, H. Chen 1

Mesenchymal stem cells: Immunomodulatory capability and clinical potential in immune diseases

Q. Zhao, H. Ren, Z. Han 3

Clinical efficacy and safety of stem cells in refractory Crohn's disease: A systematic review

L. Ye, X. Wu, N. Yu, J. Pan, L. Liao, F. Wang 21

CD138-directed adoptive immunotherapy of chimeric antigen receptor (CAR)-modified T cells for multiple myeloma

B. Guo, M. Chen, Q. Han, F. Hui, H. Dai, W. Zhang, Y. Zhang, Y. Wang, H. Zhu, W. Han 28

Cellular immunotherapy as maintenance therapy prolongs the survival of the patients with small cell lung cancer in extensive stage

X. Ding, H. Cao, X. Chen, Y. Zhao, H. Jin, C. Niu, K. Ma, Z. Liu, J. Chen, X. Wang, L. Yang, H. He, W. Han, D. Li, H. Tian, W. Li, J. Cui 36

The LALF₃₂₋₅₁ peptide as component of HPV therapeutic vaccine circumvents the alum-mediated inhibition of IL-12 and promotes a Th1 response

M. Granadillo, A. B. Alfonso, M. G. Vallespi, A. Batte, Y. Soria, E. Brown, M. Limonta, Y. C. Prieto, L. Varas, I. Torrens 44

Phagocytic activity of neutrophil is induced by granulocyte colony stimulating factor and interleukin-15 in leukemic animal model

B. Bhattacharjee, A. K. Singha, D. Maiti 52